National Teachers Hall of Fame auctions raises over $17,000

The National Teachers Hall of Fame, an organization established in 1989 to honor PreK-12 teachers and the teaching profession, hosted its annual auction Nov. 14 – 16. This year's auction raised $17,076, which will be used to support the NTHF's educational programs that address the recognition, recruitment, and retention of early career teachers.

A new addition to this year's auction was that participants were able to view and bid on auction items via the Internet. A special site was made specifically for the NTHF auction and for participants to view and bid on items. According to ESU Webmaster, Greg Smith, 220 people visited the NTHF auction site. A watch party was held at the Emporia Country Club the evening of the auction, where participants enjoyed light hors d'oeuvres and drinks.
